

1. copyright	an exclusive right to publish, copy, publically perform, broadcast, or adapt sounds, words or visual images
2. cyberbullying	harassment using digital media such as websites, email, chat rooms, social networking pages or instant messaging
3. cyberspace	the environment in which electronic communication occurs; the culture of the internet
4. cyberstalking	repeated harassment using email, text-messaging or other digital media with the intention of causing fear or intimidation
5. digital dossier	all the types of information about a person that he or she has deliberately or unintentionally put onto the internet
6. disinhibition effect	the tendency to say and do things in cyberspace that the person wouldn't ordinarily say or do face-to-face
7. extradition	the handing over of a person accused of a crime by the authorities of the country where he or she has taken refuge to the authorities of the country where the crime was committed
8. internet	a global network of interconnected computer networks that allows users to obtain and share information in a number of ways
9. internet service providers (ISPs)	companies that offer customers access to the internet
10. laissez-faire	economic philosophies that government should not interfere in business
11. libertarians	people who advocate minimal government control or interference in the lives of individuals
12. online predators	people with malicious intent, such as sex offenders, pedophiles, who give false and misleading identities with the aim of enticing their victims into harmful encounters online or in real life
13. patents	rights granted for any device, substance, method or process which is new, inventive or useful
14. racial hatred	abuse or denigration of a person because of his or her race, or verbal abuse or denigration of a race generally
15. terrorism	the unofficial or unauthorized use of violence and intimidation in the pursuit of political aims